

The Japanese American Association of CO

Proudly Serving the JA Community Since 1907

JAA of CO

The JAAC Invites Friends and Members to the Rescheduled Private Showing of SEEDS: The Story of the Rice King and His Kin

Wednesday, April 19, 2017 6:30pm Admission FREE

RSVP to marynish@comcast.net or 303-433-1638 with number attending only. Please RSVP again for this new date.

Questions? Calvin Hada at 303-550-7852 or calvinhada@gmail.com

In the San Joaquin Valley in Central California, there is the oldest family-owned and operated rice farm, called the "Koda Farms."

The founder of the Koda Farms is originally from Iwaki city, Fukushima, Japan, born in 1882. His name is Keisaburo Koda, who was widely known amongst Japanese Americans as the "Rice King" whose throne has been carried on by his grandchildren, Ross and Robin. This documentary is about perseverance, persistence, and passion of the Koda Farms through various hardships, including internment, since the 1920's and also a

Phipps Theater: Denver Museum of Nature & Science

2001 Colorado Blvd
Denver, CO 80205
Northeast City Park

East Entrance

Film Website www.seedfilm.life

